GRANTS

Augmented Reality Geometry, Lehigh University, 2013 - 2014
“Developing a Mobile Game for Research and Practice in Teaching”:
Received $4,200 compensation to create an iPad game using Stencyl. The game was programmed to be launched on an iOS device to educate special education students in concepts of geometry.

Project PEAK, Lehigh University 2014, 2015
Received competitive $26,000 compensation to develop digital learning experience. Participants progressed through SCORM learning experience controlled through Moodle LMS. The purpose of PEAK is to develop and evaluate an online early intervention family education program. PEAK is designed to target the issues of young children (age 3-5) exhibiting early behavioral symptoms of attention-deficit/ hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) by teaching parents and caregivers behavior management strategies and supportive practices over the course of a ten-week program. It is hoped that Project PEAK will lead to the development of a parent education program that is associated with more consistent use of effective behavioral strategies and enhanced parent engagement as well as greater accessibility to diverse families.
